That the sentiment of the business men best know the country's financial needs, is strongly in favor of the prompt repeal of the silver purchase law has been shown in a marked manner by the general response made to the suggestion from the New York board of trade and transportation that some expression be given to the views of the commercial bodies of the country. Only one of the thirteen hundred bodies addressed opposed repeal, and this was the Denver Chamber of Commerce, an organization that is naturally in sympathy with the silver men. As a result of the correspondence the New York board has called a convention to assemble here September 12, and it is expected that two thousand delegates will attend. Aside from urging upon Congress the business neces-sity for the immediate and unconditional repeal of the Sherman law, the convention will advocate the appointment of an expert commission to consider the future financial needs of the country. Its work will undoubtedly be of value to Congress in its deliberations, for it will present to that body, in an effective form, the testimony of the business men in every section of the land. Washington will extend a hearty welcome to the convention.

We are not in Rome, and are not, therefore, under any obligation to do as the Romans do, but there is common sense in the example set by the police force of the Eternal City as to the suppression of anarchists. For some time past the followers of the crimson banner in the heart of Italy have been threatening all sorts of mischief. and undoubtedly planned many startling and murderous surprises, which were to be exploded when a labor demonstration afforded the necessary cover. But the program has been destroyed and peace secured by the arrest of all the more prominent or vicious of the professionally discontented. Everybody who is anybody recognizes the unassailability of the truism, "An ounce of prevention is worth a pound of cure." and must commend the Roman authorities for their foresight. Such peo-ple are at least public nuisances, and should be arrested as soon as they begin to counsel disregard for law.

statesmen are evolved. Once more has Chicago suffered severely from fire and again has that lively and en-truction of nearly two hundred millions in property and rendered homeless about one hundred thousand persons. Three years later as many as six hundred houses were burned in one day, because matches were carelessly handled. Yesterday a few boys were roasting potatoes out doors and per-mitted the embers of their fire to scatter in the wind. By and by, as brick succeeds lumber, there will be fewer such disasters, and it would seem as though Chicago did not need any more expensive tuition.

It isn't the bi-metallists from the east who are making trouble; it is the sell-metallists from the west.

It has long been held that while the Record was a good paper in most respect giance to the power that permits the Duchy of Saxe Coburg and Gotha to continue in fusion of a little genuthe humor. But the newspapers of the country already show that this and other remarks are being extensively quoted as original with Mr. Pence's department of the Record. The so presents it to its readers. Passing over the rebuke that I change Editor Pence Atlantic City has many attractions, and may deserve for his frivolousness it is but are constantly increasing. Panicky Depositors Not Wanted. From the Wall Street News.

Several of the criminal and unfortunate after being found guilty and fined to have notified the court that they were short a dollar or so of the amount, whereupon the court, realizing that currency is scarce, took the cash available and declared 'tseit satisfied. The average cost of a noisy jag is now but little more than half as great as it was a month ago and the pearish tendency still prevails.

Of the many speeches to which the members of this extraordinary session of the Fifty-third Congress have listened none have as yet surpassed in excellence and in all that goes to round out statesmanlike utterance the efforts of Senator Morrill of Vermont and Representative Dingley of Maine. Both speakers are of especial eminence and are on terms of the most thorough intimacy with all that pertains to finance.

We note that requests cancelling rotices of withdrawal are now pouring in upon the savings banks of the city almost as rapidly as the notices did a short time 4go. At several of the banks yesterday the statement was made that more than 69 per cent of the depositors seemed to have showed this indication of restored confidence. But many of the banks desiring to show how independent they can be-now that the danger is past-say they do not care for these panicky depositors. These persons are simply told their accounts are not desired. The banks discriminate particularly in the direction of their less desirable depositors. Some of the banks which availed themselves of the thirty or sixty days' notice have quietly made a list of the dates when notices of withdrawals were made and have notified depositors in turn that they can have their money at once by calling at the bank. On receiving their notice many depositors conclude to let their money remain, and are surprised in some instances to learn that their patronage is no longer wanted. We note that requests cancelling notice

Whisky Demands Protection.

There is an end of David B. Hill, statesman. David B. Hill, politician, has revealed himself once more as of the peanut variety. The pity of it all is that the great state of New York, more vitally concerned than any other, perhaps, in the present crisis, is practically without representation in the Urited States Senate.—New York World.

It is also a pitiable and notable fact that the great state of Pennsylvania, vitally concerned, also, in the present crisis, is practically without representation in the United States Senate.

If Mr. Blount can only secure the journalistic support of Mr. Charles Northoff in his candidacy for Georgia's gubernatorial nomination the fight may be regarded as settled—in favor of some other man.

Whisky Demands Protection.

The astute Col. Henry Watterson, the renwell of the distillers by purchasing and stornow wants the government to come to the renweller of the distillers by purchasing and stornow the surplus product. And why not, surely? Why not take the whisky from the silver producers? If one industry is to be stimulated and protected, why not the other? Indeed, the argument in favor of whisky is even stronger than this. Whisky pays upwards of $30,000.000 annually toward the support of government, while silver pays nothing. Then again while silver pays nothing. The again while silver pays nothing the support of government to silver, and its value is comparable to the distillers by purchasing and stornow the distillers by purchasing and stornow the distillers by purchasing and stornow the surplus producers? Gov. Altgeld held on to his bed in the hotel because he wanted it, regardless of whose property it was. This was done like a true anarchist.

The repeal of silver gets advocatel so much and gets along so slowly that it must feel a good deal like Frank Lawler's post office candidacy.

Secretary Lamont has announced that he does not desire to talk. Let our Congressmen observe the methods by which great statesmen are evolved.

From the New York Sun.

Those people, men and women, who have been carrying superfluous currency in their pockets, or locking it up in bureau drawers, or hiding it in the garret under the rafters, or corking it tight in a bottle, or sewing it in the ground beneath a stone, or wearing it in a belt around the walst, or shoving it may be the ground beneath a stone, or wearing it in a belt around the walst, or shoving it under the carpet in a corner on the sly, or confiding it to the care of somebody in a whisper, might as well now fetch it forth and let it pass into the general body of the currency of the country, through which business is partly conducted and industries are carried on. That substitute for currency which bears the name of "confidence" is returning, and the people who help it along will profit by it.

from fire and again has that lively and enterprising center been shown that conflagrative danger must attend the erection and aggregation of a large number of wooden buildings. The region which was yesterday so severely afflicted was built up very largely of wood and when fire gets a good start among frame houses on a breezy day the fire department must always expect to be busy. The losses consequent upon yesterday's blaze were not heavy when compared with the vast sums that have gone up in flame and smoke from the site of the western metropolis, and Chicago will be able to stand without difficulty the loss of a million or two dollars, but there is a lesson in the disaster. Trivial and easily preventable causes have given the world's fair city a great deal of trouble. Twenty-two years
